5.0 out of 5 stars Fabulous savings for diabetics., October 1, 2011

By now I should probably stop being amazed at the bargains I discover on Amazon.com, but these Easy-Touch pen needles are definitely worthy of a glowing review. They're literally ONE-THIRD the price of my medical insurance co-pay for a name brand! These needles are just as comfortable and perform exactly like their more expensive counterparts. I've had no problem whatsoever with quality control (bent needles). I highly recommend this product!

5.0 out of 5 stars Comparable to BD for half the price, December 22, 2010

These are a pretty straight forward product, but I wanted the doubters out there to know that they are a great substitute for the BD 31G short needles. No issues at all.

5.0 out of 5 stars Great Needles for a Great Price, December 16, 2010

I just received my Easy -Touch pen needles today and tried out my first one. I use the solostar pen for insulin injections. The solostar was not listed by the manufacturer but they claimed it would fit most pens so I took a chance. At first it was a bit different to attach to the pen to the cartridge but a couple of turns and it mated right up. The one thing I noticed right off the bat was the comfort of the injection. I did not feel anything and I have been using the BD brand for the last two years. Taking it off was much easier than the BD brand so now I am sold the Easy-Touch brand. Works well and costs way less.

5.0 out of 5 stars cost effective alternative to BD, November 9, 2010

Tried a box of these as an alternative to the BD equivalent at my local pharmacy. Between 1/4 and 1/3 the cost and they work just as well.

5.0 out of 5 stars Compares to BD brand, save money, May 31, 2010

I just started on insulin. My doctor gave me a few BD brand pen needles. When they ran out I bought these and can't tell the difference.

5.0 out of 5 stars Compares to BD brand, save money, May 31, 2010

These needles are comparable to Novofine and BD logic 31 gauge needles, they feel just as smooth and are 1/3 the price and no tax or prescription needed! I bought a 6 month supply for $80!!! Quality product, easy to get. Shipped on time and I will forever be ordering these from now on.
